This book provides a comprehensive history of American print automobile advertising over a half-century span, beginning with the entrenchment of the “Big Three” automakers during the Depression and concluding with the fuel crises of the 1970s and early 1980s. Advances in general advertising layouts and graphics are discussed in Part One, together with the ways in which styling, mechanical improvements, and convenience features were highlighted. Part Two explores ads that were concerned less with the attributes of the cars themselves than with shaping the way consumers would perceive and identify with them. Part Three addresses ads oriented toward the practical aspects of automobile ownership, concluding with an account of how advertising responded to the advance of imported cars after World War II. Illustrations include more than 250 automobile advertisements, the majority of which have not been seen in print since their original publication.

Their intense therapeutic relationship led to a mutual fascination that lasted, for Spielrein, for the rest of her life. It is debatable whether Spielrein and Jung's relationship was consummated, but it did give birth to some of the most important ideas within psychoanalysis and analytical psychology today, the most notable being that of the death instinct. But what happened to Spielrein and why have her story and work remained in the dark for so many years? This second edition of Sabina Spielrein: Forgotten Pioneer of Psychoanalysis complements the first edition by retaining many of the most important documents about her life and work. Included in this edition are Jung's hospital records of his treatment of Spielrein, Jung's letters to Spielrein following her discharge in 1905, extracts from her personal diary, and her ground breaking paper on the development of language, "The origin of the child's words Papa and Mama." New material includes Spielrein's famous paper, "Destruction as a cause of coming into being", in which she formulates her theory of the death drive, a paper describing her place and contribution within Freud's Vienna Circle, commentaries on the mutual erotic transference between Spielrein and Jung, and a theoretical discussion of her seminal ideas on aggression. This new edition compiles the essential writings of Spielrein along with commentaries by prominent psychoanalytic and Jungian scholars. It is the definitive source book on Spielrein for clinicians, scholars and historians of psychoanalysis. Be blessed! Sneak Peek Inside! Chapter VI: Heavenly Insurance I "For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways." Psalm 91:11 Back in 1998, my husband had an appointment in Brooklyn, NY and was proceeding fast on the Jackie Robinson Parkway bound for his destination. As he came into a curve, the concrete wall divider was on his left and a vehicle was on his right. When he cleared the curve, he faced death dead on. Straight ahead was a flatbed tow truck, the kind with the sharp horizontal metal sticking out the rear end. With insufficient space between the tow truck and his vehicle and with the divider to his left and a car to his right, there was no way to go but forward, straight into the end of life as he knew it. Later on my husband said the incident might have only unfolded in seconds but back then it seemed like forever as he faced a sure fire fatality that the collision would have brought. The driver on his right saw what was about to happen and floored it. The one behind realized as well and applied the brakes. A puff of air before impact, my husband swung right into the space made possible just then between the two cars. With a pounding heart and shaking frame, my husband continued on his way, his mind lifting the highest praise to God for the timely salvation He had given to him.
