Nel corso degli anni Settanta la polizia fu attraversata, come altri settori della società italiana, da proteste e forti richieste di cambiamento. Da questi fermenti nacque, dal basso e all'interno dell'istituzione, un movimento che si pose l'obiettivo di condurre la Pubblica Sicurezza a una riforma profonda che ne garantisse la smilitarizzazione e ne rendesse possibile la sindacalizzazione. In pochi anni le adesioni dei poliziotti al movimento per la riforma e alla sua organizzazione clandestina crebbero vertiginosamente. Dopo aver creato una solida rete di comitati locali e aver raccolto migliaia di simpatizzanti, il movimento uscì allo scoperto. In un Paese segnato dalla violenza crescente di terrorismo e criminalità, i poliziotti riuscirono a portare i problemi della polizia al centro del dibattito politico. La riforma giunse soltanto nell'aprile del 1981 e rispose solo in parte, come scoprirà il lettore, alle richieste del movimento.

"Every year between 250 000 and 500 000 people suffer a spinal cord injury, with road traffic crashes, falls and violence as the three leading causes. People with spinal cord injury are two to five times more likely to die prematurely. They also have lower rates of school enrollment and economic participation than people without such injuries. Spinal cord injury has costly consequences for the individual and society, but it is preventable, survivable and need not preclude good health and social inclusion. Ensuring an adequate medical and rehabilitation response, followed by supportive services and accessible environments, can help minimize the disruption to people with spinal cord injury and their families. The aims of International perspectives on spinal cord injury are to: --assemble and summarize information on spinal cord injury, in particular the epidemiology, services, interventions and policies that are relevant, together with the lived experience of people with spinal cord injury; --make recommendations for actions based on this evidence that are consistent with the aspirations for people with disabilities as expressed in the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

This report is part of WHO's response to the 49th World Health Assembly held in 1996 which adopted a resolution declaring violence a major and growing public health problem across the world. It is aimed largely at researchers and practitioners including health care workers, social workers, educators and law enforcement officials.
