The second largest ethnic group in Alberta, the German ethnolinguistic community has played a significant role in Alberta's history, but the future is bleak for maintaining German language and culture in the multicultural mosaic of Alberta. This book examines the stature of the German language in Alberta by addressing the use of German in the community and the teaching of German in schools and universities in the province.

Excerpt from A Third German Reader and Writer: Being a First Course of Readings and Exercises on German Syntax The subject matter of these passages has been drawn from the field of German history, topography and legend; it is thus thoroughly national in character, dealing with Saab unb Saute. It will be seen that the Complex Sentence is not dealt with systematically in this book; it will form the subject of a Fourth Course. But Complex Sentences presenting no difficulty are by no means excluded the main rules for Subordinate Clauses have already been practised in the Second Reader and W'riter. The passages in the Writer marked B and C are of a somewhat more difficult character than those marked A, and are intended to provide material for repeating the course, should it be thought desirable to do so. It is therefore possible to omit these alternative passages on going through the book for the first time, without sacrificing grammatical continuity. The Vocabulary has been drawn up with great care. Synonyms are distinguished, and many idiomatic points carefully dealt with. All information which would rob the pupil of the opportunity of applying the knowledge which he already possesses, or ought to possess, is intentionally omitted. For the German words in the Reader it has been thought best to refer the pupil to the Dictionary. The Appendix contains supplementary matter for the enlivening of the reading lessons. Poems 2-10 should be studied in connexion with the sections of the Reader that deal with the same subject matter.
