Bruno Munari (1907-1998) played a pioneering role in the evolution of twentieth-century art and design, his work exerting an influence that stretched far beyond the borders of Italy. Munari described the roots of his work as his 'Futurist past', but his influences were extremely varied, also reflecting the aesthetics and sensibilities of Constructivism, Dada and Surrealism. This exhibition at the Estorick collection in London explores Munari's artistic research between 1927 and 1950, spanning the artist's Futurist phase and early investigation of the possibilities of kinetic sculpture, the immediate post-war years during which he became a leading figure of abstract painting and his subsequent experiments with projected light and installation-based work. 0Exhibition: Estorick Collection of Modern Italian Art, London, UK (19.9.-23.12.2012). A "double" volume to leaf through in two verses, dedicated to two protagonists of Rome's artistic and cultural panorama - Mara Coccia (Rome, 1925-2014) and Daniela Ferraria (Rome, 1943) - whose souls intertwine in the history of the famous Arco d'Alibert gallery, in the heart of the Italian capital.0Founded by Mara in 1963, the gallery was a reference point for the lively climate of the time, populated by artists such as Mario Schifano, Franco Angeli, Gastone Novelli, Fabio Mauri, but also Asger Jorn and Alexander Calder, to name a few.0In 1970 the Arco d'Alibert closes to reopen in 1975 in a new location with a management that, initially shared, is then definitively taken over by Daniela Ferraria, Coccia's collaborator since 1968, who will guide it until 2006, while Mara will successfully continue her activity in other contexts.00The volume, in celebrating the donation of their precious archives that both have entrusted to the National Gallery of Rome, gives a portrait of the two gallery owners and tells of their respective adventures, highlighting their character, their differences and peculiarities. 00Exhibition: La Galleria Nazionale, Rome, Italy (18.06.-20.09.2020).

The pages of this volume reflect an explosion of African art that goes beyond ethnic or regional lines, and presents contemporary African art as it has never before been seen. The book moves from those artists most closely aligned with ancestral, tribal forms to those for whom the ties to tradition have been loosened considerably. Illustrations, 192 in full color.

"Although he is recognized almost exclusively as a master of black-and-white photography, Capa began working regularly with color film in 1941 and used it until his death in 1954. Some of this work was published in the great picture magazines of the day, but the majority of these images have never been printed or seen in any form. While he did use color for some early World War II stories, Capa's use of color film exploded in his postwar stories. These photographs brought the lives of ordinary and exotic people from around the world to American and European readers alike, and were markedly different from the war reportage that had dominated Capa's early career. In the late 1940s, Capa traveled to the USSR, Budapest, and Israel to cover postwar life. Capa's technical ability coupled with his engagement with human emotion in his prewar black-and-white stories enabled him to move easily between black and white and color film. Capa's photographs also provided readers a glimpse into more glamorous lifestyles that depended on the allure and seduction of color photography. In 1950, he covered fashionable ski resorts in the Swiss, Austrian, and French Alps, and the stylish French resorts of Biarritz and Deauville for the burgeoning travel market capitalized on by Holiday magazine. He even tried fashion photography by the banks of the Seine and on the Place Vendome. Through his friendships with many actors, Capa photographed Ingrid Bergman, Humphrey Bogart, Orson Welles, and John Huston, among others, in intimate moments on European film sets. Capa in Color will explore how he started to see anew with color film and how his work adapted to a new postwar sensibility. The new medium required him to readjust to color compositions, but also to a postwar audience, interested in being entertained and transported

La mostra e il catalogo illustrano il metodo creativo di Alighiero Boetti (1940-1994), un artista "singolare" che nel tempo Ã ? riuscito a diventare "plurale", cambiando nel 1972 il proprio nome in Alighiero&Boetti. Torinese d'origine, Ã ? stato tra i piÃ1 importanti esponenti del movimento Arte povera e dell'Arte Concettuale. Nel corso della sua vita si avvicina a molteplici discipline dalla musica alla matematica, dalla filosofia all'esoterismo, dalle culture africane a quelle del Medio ed Estremo Oriente, verso le quali compie molti dei suoi viaggi. Ogni progetto artistico ha sempre al centro un primo momento di ideazione, svolto singolarmente dell'artista, e poi concretizzato, materializzato e diffuso attraverso un'elaborazione a piÃ1 mani nella quale gli esecutori non sono semplice manovalanza ma artefici. Boetti dÃ vita a un concetto di creativitÃ diffusa: l'artista dÃ i suoi input al corpo sociale che raccogliendoli si fa artefice, confermando un rapporto di scambio e di complice dignitÃ . Il percorso della mostra intende sottolineare il nomadismo culturale ed esistenziale di un artista che Ã ? riuscito a sdoppiarsi iconograficamente in Alighiero&Boetti e attraverso l'opera, mediante il momento esecutivo, a ricongiungersi con il mondo. Per questo il titolo della mostra Ã ? "Mettere all'arte il mondo": indica l'attitudine di un grande artista che ha voluto far socializzare la propria creativitÃ , sviluppando come metodo l'interattivitÃ e la comunicazione dell'arte nella societÃ di massa.

The migrants must leave the forest. Borders are crossed, sacrifices made, loved ones are lost. It takes such courage to reach the end. At last the journey is over and the migrants arrive. This is the new place. With forceful simplicity, Migrants narrates the journey of a group of animals leaving a leafless forest. Borders must be crossed, sacrifices made, loved ones left behind. Watanabe takes extraordinary care to show the individuality and humanity of each migrant--through the detailed patterns on their clothing, their care of each other as they set up camp, the symbol of the blue ibis showing the connection between past and future, life and death.

Damien Hirst enters into creative conversation with the many masterpieces of the Galleria Borghese In an extraordinary cultural undertaking, British artist Damien Hirst (born 1965) has launched an intense and unfiltered interaction with the works of Caravaggio, Raphael, Titian, Bernini, Canova and others in Italy's Galleria Borghese. An unparalleled and controversial celebrity of the contemporary art world, Hirst's work is perfectly suited to be displayed in relation to the colors and materials found in the Galleria Borghese. His sculptures, made of fine materials such as bronze, Carrara marble or seductive malachite, have been put on display in rooms of the museum that house masterpieces of the modern era such as the statuary groups of Gian Lorenzo Bernini and Antonio Canova's Paolina Borghese. The resulting effect is one of surprising harmony: the Five Grecian Nudes appear natural next to Canova's sculpture and the primitive appearance of the Lion Women of Asit Mayor is in perfect chromatic accord with the floors of the Galleria. Hirst's new series of Colour Space paintings offers the same sense of continuity as the flow of the works hanging in the museum's picture gallery. This comprehensive vision of the past and the present is fostered by the proximity of antique painting and contemporary painting, without frames to separate them, and without elements of signage to interrupt this immersion.

EIGHT FAIRY TALES WRITTEN AND ILLUSTRATED BY ME A long, long time ago, in a town not a million miles from here, there was a rather grown-up little girl who just couldn't get enough of....fairy tales. And so begins my own favourite fairy tale, all about (you've guessed it!) fairy tales. I wrote them out of love, just for fun and because I simply couldn't live without them. Having kept them under wraps for so many years, I felt the time had come to....set them free. All my stories are dedicated to people I love. Those who know me also know that when I have something to say, I write. So now my fairy tales are available to anyone who wishes to read them. The stories are for small children and 'big kids' alike, and I hope they fill you with joy and wonder. PUBLISHER: TEKTIME

During the 1970s, Francesco Clemente developed a body of work that defined a generation living in political crisis and cultural reformation. Francesco Clemente, Works 1971-1979 examines the development of early artistic notions rooted in self-fragmentation, a questioning of western rationality, and the refutation of capitalist ideals. With over a hundred works, this survey traces the link between Clemente's ink on paper works and conceptual photographs, heightened exponentially by the transference of both styles to canvas. Along with the cultural climate in Rome, journeys through Delhi, Madras, and Srinagar fermented Clemente's means of artistic exploration through the body - his trust of geography over history - and initiated one of the most celebrated expressionistic legacies.

Newly translated writings on art from the Italian arte povera provocateur Featuring a luxurious faux-leather binding, Piero Manzoni: Writings on Art features 25 texts by the Italian artist Piero Manzoni (1933-63), spanning from 1956 to 1963, the year of the artist's premature death by heart attack. Writing during the Italian economic miracle of the '50s and '60s, Manzoni's essays and manifestos represent his response to the state of midcentury Italian art and art writing. Selected by art historian Gaspare Luigi Marcone, all writings have been either translated into English for the first time or newly translated. Each text is accompanied by extensive archival images and contextualized with editorial commentary. The book features a foreword by the Piero Manzoni Foundation's director, Rosalia Pasqualino di Marineo, and a newly commissioned essay by one of today's best-known art historians, Benjamin H.D. Buchloh.

This memoir is both a private testimony and a critical study, written by the woman who was Boetti's companion during the first 20, and most decisive, years of his career. It is also an album of photographs and drawings, many of them never before published. Witness the very individual journey of the "shaman/showman," as Boetti referred to himself, evoked through images and words that recall the key events, times, and places of the 1960s and 70s generation of artists. Boetti's artistic output spanned 30 years, from 1964 until his death in 1994, and he was prolifically inventive. He graduated from Arte Povera to Conceptualism with an enchanting playfulness, but also with powerful philosophical and geopolitical intuitions that only now fully reveal their prophetic nature. This second part of the catalogue of the work of Boetti, an artist who, to begin with, associated himself with the Arte Povera movement, looks at the crucial period when his work took the form of conceptual poetry. An artist who loved experimenting with n Music video is a popular form worldwide. It is a teachable and accessible topic because the videos are familiar to students, easy to get hold of and short.

mind, body, spirit: thought & practice.

The exhibition is composed of examples from some of the artist's most important series, including Camouflage canvases from the 1960s, Alternating 1 to 100 and Vice Versa Kilims from the 1990s and the well-known Maps from 1971-1992. These works feature Boetti's signature use of textiles as his medium, including various woven wool pieces as well as embroidery. The show will also include two significant self-portrait sculptures, one from the beginning of his career, "Me Sunbathing in Turin on 19 January 1969," and another from the end, "Self-Portrait, 1993."

Edited by one of the world's foremost authorities on the subject, Arte Povera is the most complete overview of this movement ever published.
