'Archbold' is the most regularly cited publication in the criminal courts today, and an indispensable companion for all those involved in the administration of criminal law. It provides all the material needed when preparing for and during a trial.

Archbold is a regularly cited publication in the criminal courts and a companion for all those involved in the administration of criminal law. It provides the reader with all the material needed when preparing for and during a trial, including both substantive law and the practice and procedure of the courts. The 2001 edition updates sentencing law as consolidated by the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000, and Human Rights law in anticipation of the Act coming into force. It addresses the gradual implementation of the Access to Justice Act 1999 and the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999. There are practice directions and recent cases, such as R v Antoine, R v Z and Morgan v DPP (House of Lords), discussing issues such as diminished responsibility, inferences from silence, custody time limits, disclosure and similar fact evidence.

"Archbold is the most regularly cited publication in the criminal courts today, and an indispensable companion for all those involved in the administration of criminal law. It provides the reader with all the material needed when preparing for a case, and during a trial, including both substantive law and practice and procedure of the courts. Comprehensive coverage includes an analysis of all relevant topics from Human Rights to Appeals to the law of Evidence. Annual publication with regular updating in the form of three cumulative supplements."--Westlaw UK Help - About Commentary.

A practical guide which draws together the considerable and diverse body of law relating to dogs and their activities. It contains a narrative summary of the law, and fully annotated primary and secondary legislation and government circulars. Essential for all whose work involves them with dog law, including local authority dog wardens and the police, as well as organisations such as kennels and dog clubs.
