It was found necessary to bring out reprint of second edition of this valuable contribution to Indian Sociology (V.Elwin) The Book describes exhaustively and in great details the life and lore of two important tribes living in a close social and economic symbiosis in eastern Madhya Pradesh. For this second edition the author has not only revised and brought up-to-date his data taking due account of the changes which have taken place since the time the book was first published, but he has also added a new chapter in which he describes the measures which the Government of India is taking for the welfare and acculturation of the tribals of India. His expert evaluation of the Government schemes deserves the careful study of Government officials and social workers interested in tribal welfare. Global Finance on Screen is the first collection exclusively dedicated to a growing body of multi-format and multimedia audiovisual work that this book designates as the finance film. Finance film provides critical visualizations of the secretive, elitist, PR firewalled, and gender and race-biased world of finance, and its mysterious characters, jargon and products. It reconstructs for the screen and for broader audiences finance's logics, responsibilities, practices, and ethos, and traces the effects of money, markets, investment, credit, debt, bubbles, and crashes on our well-being, desires, values, and actions. The chapters for this interdisciplinary collection are written by European and North American scholars in film studies, anthropology, business ethics, cultural studies, political economy, and sociology. They reveal and evaluate the ability of film to document financial cultures; reflect economic, cultural and political transformations related to financialization; indicate the alienating and exploitative consequences of the growing role played by financial services in the global economy; mobilize social action against finance's excesses; as well as spread finance and capitalist mythology. The collection offers in-depth investigations of feature films such as Wall Street, Freefall, Margin Call, Justice&Co, The Wolf of Wall Street, and The Big Short, and documentaries such as Inside Job, Capitalism: A Love Story and In a Strange Land.
