La Terra, forse, dovrebbe chiamarsi Mare: il pianeta Mare, con isole di terra. Il Mare non è solo immenso: è immensamente mobile, variabile, vivo, profondo, fertile, avventuroso. È dal Mare, con giocosa capriola, che comincia la parola Meraviglia. Al Mare, sul quale si muovono le storie e le memorie del mondo, Roberto Piumini dedica questa emozionante raccolta di poesie, che i disegni di Paolo d'Altan accompagnano con tratto leggero.

This book reclaims logic as a branch of philosophy, offering a self-contained and complete introduction to the three traditional systems of classical logic (term, sentence, and predicate logic) and the philosophical issues that surround those systems. The exposition is lucid, clear, and engaging. Practical methods are favored over the traditional, and creative approaches over the merely mechanical. The author's guiding principle is to introduce classical logic in an intellectually honest way, and not to shy away from difficulties and controversies where they arise.

Relevant philosophical issues, such as the relation between the meaning and the referent of a proper name, logical versus metaphysical possibility, and the conceptual content of an expression, are discussed throughout. In this way, the book is not only an introduction to the three main systems of classical logic, but also an introduction to the philosophy of classical logic. It is published every week, usually on Friday, with occasional releases of special or supplementary editions within the week.

“C'è un signore russo che era giovane duecento anni fa che una volta, a Parigi, aveva detto che la Russia è quel paese dove le favole sono allegre e le canzoni tristi. Be', questa è una raccolta di favole allegre, anche se alcune un po' fanno paura, perlomeno a me, fanno paura, e sono favole allegre che hanno la caratteristica che non le ha scritte nessuno”. Children's book icon Joseph Bruchac tells the fascinating story of a Seneca (Iroquois) Civil War officer Ely S. Parker (1828–1895) is one of the most unique but little-known figures in US history. A member of the Seneca (Iroquois) Nation, Parker was an attorney, engineer, and tribal diplomat. Raised on a reservation but schooled at a Catholic institution, he learned English at a young age and became an interpreter for his people. During the American Civil War, he was commissioned as a lieutenant colonel and was the primary draftsman of the terms of the Confederate surrender at Appomattox. He eventually became President Grant's Commissioner of Indian Affairs, the first Native American to hold that post. Award-winning children's book author and Native American scholar Joseph Bruchac provides an expertly researched, intimate look at a man who achieved great success in two worlds yet was caught between them.
