Komunikasi intrapersonal memainkan peranan penting ke atas kesihatan psikologi dan kejayaan sosial.

This book provides a detailed description of research and application outcomes from the Assessment and Teaching of 21st Century Skills project, which explored a framework for understanding the nature of these skills. The major element of this new volume is the presentation of research information from the global assessment of two 21st century skills that are amenable to teaching and learning: collaborative problem solving, and learning in digital networks. The outcomes presented include evidence to support the validity of assessment of 21st century skills and descriptions of consequent pedagogical approaches which can be used both to teach the skills and to use them to enhance key learning goals in secondary education systems. The sections of the volume are connected through a focus on the degree to which innovative assessment tasks measure the constructs of interest. This focus is informed by conceptual and methodological issues associated with affordances of 21st century computer-based assessment. How understanding of the nature of the skills, as derived from these assessments, can guide approaches to the integration of 21st century skills in the classroom, is informed by initiatives adopted by participating countries. The guiding questions in this volume are: "Do the assessment tasks measure the constructs?" and "What are the implications for assessment and teaching in the classroom?" It is the third volume of papers from this project published by Springer.

This volume presents carefully selected essays from Gadamer's Kleine Schriften. The seven essays comprising Part 1 contain Gadamer's discussion of hermeneutical reflection. Part 2 consists of six essays dealing with phenomenology, existential philosophy, and philosophical hermeneutics.

The Latino population in the United States continues to grow and now represents 12% of the population. Yet, remarkably little attention has been paid to understanding parenting and child development processes among Latino families. This volume addresses this need and advances the field both by presenting state-of-the-art research on Latino parenting and also by proposing conceptual and methodological frameworks that can provide the field with further integration and direction.

This pioneering work is the most comprehensive book on Black families in therapy to appear in the clinical literature. It is unprecedented in its attention to the cultural diversity among Black families, its emphasis on the utilization of cultural strengths in therapy, and on its application of the concept of clinical empowerment. Dr. Boyd-Franklin also gives thoughtful attention to the therapist's use of self and the subtleties which are often involved in the treatment process. Highlighting the diversity among Black Afro-American families, the author's first five chapters explore a number of cultural issues including racism, racial identification, and skin color; extended family patterns and informal adoptions; role flexibility and boundary confusion; religion and spirituality. Numerous case examples provide rich illustrations of these topics. The latter part of the book further explores socioeconomic differences with specific chapters on poor inner-city, single-parent, and middle-class Black families. An important contribution of this work is its elaboration of the Multisystems Model which allows family therapists to intervene with Black families at multiple levels including the individual, the family, the extended family, church and community networks, and the social service system. Dr. Boyd-Franklin's clear straightforward presentation of this model will allow the practicing therapist to apply it to even the most complex treatment realities. In addition, this Multisystems Model has applicability to many other ethnic groups and treatment situations. For training programs that include ethnicity, culture, and the treatment of Black families in their curriculum, this book provides a comprehensive syllabus. It is essential reading for family therapists, psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers, medical practitioners, pastoral counselors, educators, and public agency administrators. For students and practitioners in these fields it provides a scholarly, incisive analysis that sets a standard for ethnicity studies in the therapeutic arena. This book covers all type of addictions, from substance abuses and eating disorders to gambling, pornography, and shopping. This two volume set contains frank and factual information about symptoms, causes, effects, prevention, and treatment of substance abuse - alcohol, nicotine, and drugs - and of 'behavioural addictions' such as eating disorders, pathological gambling, and compulsive sexual activity. Including the most up-to-date research, entries trace the history of the debate over whether addiction is a choice or a disease, and explain how genetic and biological findings support the disease concept while lifestyle choices affect the course of the disease. Graphics and discussions of the brain structures that support this self-reinforcing mechanism illustrate why treatments that obstruct the pathway are showing such promise. The volumes offer an historical perspective including biographical information on pioneers in addictions research and treatment. Some material is presented in 'fact boxes' and other graphically pleasing formats. This single-source reference includes lists of support groups, organizations devoted to addictions research and treatment, and suggestions for obtaining further information. Entries include alcohol; alternative treatment; anorexia; antidepressants; betablockers; blended model of addiction; brain chemistry; cigarettes; denial; disease model of addiction; exercise addiction; Food and Drug Administration; gambling addiction; Jung, Carl G.; methadone; neurotransmitters; overdose; pornography; recreational drugs; relapse; serenity prayer; shopping addiction; Temazepam; vicodin; withdrawal; and, Women's Christian Temperance Union and more.

Palestine bukan milikku, bukan milik bangsa Turki tetapi milik bangsa Arab. Baitul Maqdis pula bukan milik bangsa Arab tetapi milik umat Islam seluruhnya. Aku tidak akan sesekali menyerahkan bumi Palestine walaupun sejengkal setelah bangsaku berjihad bermati-matian mempertahankan dan menyuburkan tanahnya dengan darah-darah mereka.

Simpanlah wang kamu yang berjuta ringgit itu kerana sekiranya suatu hari nanti Khilafah Islamiyah ini tumbang, kamu boleh mengambilnya tanpa sebarang wang tukaran. Adapun, sekiranya aku masih hidup, aku lebih rela diriku dicincang daripada melihat bumi Palestine dikeluarkan dari Daulah Islamiyah dan perkara itu selama-lamanya tidak akan berlaku. Adakah kami akan membenarkan diri (Wilayah-wilayah takluk Kerajaan Turki Uthmaniyah) kami ini semua dipisahkan sedangkan kami masih hidup?!" (Sultan Abdul Hamid II pada tahun 1901 ketika ditawarkan oleh Tiodore Hertzal (Ketua Pertubuhan Zionis Antarabangsa dan antara pemimpin tertinggi freemasonry). Dipetik daripada kitab Kaifa Saqat al-Khilafah al-Islamiyah, halaman 26) Selepas Turki Uthmaniyah kalah dalam Perang Dunia Pertama (1914–1918), British yang menguasai tanah jajahan Turki Uthmaniyah (termasuk Palestine) mengisytiharkan Perisytiharan Balfour pada tahun 1917 dengan mengiktiraf negara Israel tanpa menafikan hak-hak sivil dan agama masyarakat bukan Yahudi di Palestin. Sejak dari itu, seramai 85,000 orang Yahudi sudah pun bermastautin di Palestin. Pada tahun 1947, UN Partition Resolution (GA 181) membahagikan tanah Palestine dengan 4,700 batu kepada 1.35 juta penduduk Arab Palestine manakala 5,300 batu kepada 630 ribu pendatang Yahudi. Pembahagian yang jelas berat sebelah mencetus Perang Arab-Israel 1947 dan Perang Arab-Israel 1948. Buku ini mendedahkan: Faktor kekuatan tentera Israel yang memenangi Perang Arab-Israel 1947-1948, Perang Suez 1956, dan Perang Enam Hari 1967, Perang Yom Kippur 1973 Faktor kelemahan tentera gabungan Arab yang mendorong kekalahan kepada Israel. Strategi yang digunakan oleh kedua-dua pihak. Perjanjian Camp David: Sebab dan kesan ke atas Palestine dan Negara-Negara Arab di sekitarnya. Konflik Israel-Lubnan (1978-2006): Harapan buat Negara-Negara Islam? Palestine: Kesengsaraan, bantuan Luar dan harapan masa depan. Exploring Spirituality and Culture in Adult and Higher Education is written from the unique perspective of teacher, researcher, and author Elizabeth Tisdell who has extensive experience dealing with culture, gender, and educational equity issues in secular adult and higher education classrooms, and formerly in pastoral and religious education settings on college campuses. This important book discusses how spiritual development is informed by culture and how this knowledge is relevant to teaching and learning. For educators, an understanding of how spirituality is informed by culture, and how spirituality assists in meaning-making, can aid in their efforts to help their students' educational experiences become more transformative and culturally relevant.

From Justice Department officials seizing people's homes based on mere rumors to the IRS and its master plan to prohibit the nation's self-employed from working for themselves to the perpetrators of the Waco siege, government officials are tearing the Bill of Rights to pieces. Today's citizen is now more likely than ever to violate some unknown law or regulation and be placed at the mercy of an administrator or politician hungering for publicity. Unfortunately, the only way many government agencies can measure their "public service" is by the number of citizens they harass, hinder, restrain, or jail. James Bovard's Lost Rights provides a highly entertaining analysis of the bloated excess of government and the plight of contemporary Americans beaten into submission by a horrible parody of the Founding Fathers' dream.

Successful clinical use of intensity-modulated radiation therapy (IMRT) represents a significant advance in radiation oncology. Because IMRT can deliver high-dose radiation to a target with a reduced dose to the surrounding organs, it can improve the local control rate and reduce toxicities associated with radiation therapy. Since IMRT began being used in the mid-1990s, a large volume of clinical evidence of the advantages of IMRT has been collected. However, treatment planning and quality assurance (QA) of IMRT are complicated and difficult for the clinician and the medical physicist. This book, by authors renowned for their expertise in their fields, provides cumulative clinical evidence and appropriate techniques for IMRT for the clinician and the physicist. Part I deals with the foundations and techniques, history, principles, QA, treatment planning, radiobiology and related aspects of IMRT. Part II covers clinical applications with several case studies, describing contouring and dose distribution with clinical results along with descriptions of indications and a review of clinical evidence for each tumor site. The information presented in this book serves as a valuable resource for the practicing clinician and physicist.

Is it time to give up on rehabilitating criminals? Record numbers of Americans are going to prison, and most of them will eventually return to society with a high chance of becoming repeat offenders. But a decision to abandon rehabilitation programs now would be premature warns Ann Chih Lin, who finds that little attention has been given to how these programs are actually implemented and why they tend to fail. In Reform in the Making, she not only supplies much-needed information on the process of program implementation but she also considers its social context, the daily realities faced by prison staff and inmates. By offering an in-depth look at common rehabilitation programs currently in operation--education, job training, and drug treatment--and examining how they are used or misused, Lin offers a practical approach to understanding their high failure rate and how the situation could be improved. Based on extensive observation and over 350 interviews with staff and prisoners in five medium-security male prisons, the book contrasts successfully implemented programs with subverted, abandoned, or neglected programs (those which staff reject or which do not teach prisoners anything useful). Lin explains that staff and prisoners have little patience with programs aimed at long-range goals when they must face the ongoing, immediate challenge of surviving prison life. Finding incentives to make both sides participate fully in rehabilitation is among the book's many contributions to improving prison policy.
